Here's all you need to know about the British racing star. Meet Ethel Myers Ethel Helen Myers was born on 19th April 1910 in Wolverhampton, England. She was the eldest child of seven children in an affluent family. Her father was a car salesman who wanted her to follow in his footsteps but she instead chose to become a stage actress. In order to pursue her passion, Myers moved to Birmingham, where she earned a living by impersonating the voice of Lady Godiva. When she was nineteen, Myers met John Myers, the racing driver of the same name. She was immediately smitten, but he, albeit a very wealthy man, was more interested in making money than women. He was a driver for a new motorsport team called Triumph at the time and would send her a cheque in the mail. She would pretend to be his girlfriend in order to receive the money. d0c515b9f4
